Divorce Reform
ALMOST UNANIMOUS OF
LEGALIZED FREE LOVE

NEW YORK, March 21.—Calling upon all religious organizations—Catholic, Protestant and Jewish—gathered to concert action against easy divorce. Bishop William J. Manning of the Episcopate Church yesterday declared that the origin of monogamy's marriage was rapidly being abandoned in the United States and that the nation had almost reached a condition of legal free love.

To allow man and woman to live together for a time and then with legal sanction on their marriage give rise to a state of affairs that is almost as bad as divorce. The said is in line with the old marriage and to do it is a state of legalized free love. This is the system which we have now almost reached.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT

"THE LA" Marie Corne is a real little love story told in unforgetable scenes of beauty, splendor and dramatic punch in the feature picture today and tomorrow at this theatre. It has a unique entertainment of the true, interesting character on the screen. It has been superbly created by George Beaumont the producer who wrote it as a vehicle for Jane Novak. Moreover the star has well high perfect embodiment of the character both in the acting and the screen as author. She is also perfect. Novak's eyes combine the delicate prettiness beauty and fidelity with the Viking spirit. The star is real and resplendent by night. She is the torch of a world that is with the torches of a Nordic beauty who is a British actress and captain in London scenes in her own skin's beauty and charm. London scenes are fine and full of a double the crowd. Let the audience sing along at least with a personality that is invincible. The downtown theater room and drama production would in truth be hard to beat.

THE SOISSON

"KINDRED ON THE PINE" which is appearing at this theater in a presentation of Peter B. Lewis' famous novel. One of the strongest sets ever assembled for a silent picture drama, the story including the action scenes copied the treated scenes whose work in "The Old and the Young" and "The National" production will be well remembered. The players, Lewis, Belmore, Lillian Russell, Marjorie Morris, beside Weston, W. J. Ferguson, Carolyn Bancroft, Mrs. Frank John Sherman and others.

Wing Cooper plays the part of "Sam of Scotland" who is the friend to whom the girls have been sent but who, through many vicissitudes, manages to find the happiness for which his soul was born.

As Donald Stewart, one of the owners of the largest saw mill in the North of England, is a particularly attractive character to the story.

THE DAILY COURIER

I INVITE EVERY MAN AND WOMAN IN CONNELLSVILLE AND VICINITY

Every Person in This Section Who Is Weak, Rundown, Sick and Nervous, to Try This Great Medicine at My Expense. Free Bottle Will Be Given to All Who Come Early.

All have the same chance to get well and strong.

This is an invitation you can't afford to ignore. I'll tell you why. I am going to give you a free bottle of medicine that will tone you up and put an end to all chances of indigestion, rheumatism, constipation, catarrh and kindred ills.

The medicine of which William Branson said, "It is the only medicine that cured my stomach and stopped the gas, wiped away stomach troubles and put strength and vitality into my blood."

A highly efficient stomach medicine made from roots, herbs, barks, leaves and a few other good things for the nerves, blood, stomach, kidneys and bowels.

You may be starving your blood in the midst of plenty. It isn't how much you eat that counts, but it's how you digest the food you eat.

You cannot get strength out of water without fire, you can't get brain power, nerve force, and blood corpuscles out of food without digestion.

Thousands lack sufficient vital force and don't know why. They think they need a tonic, a vacation or a change of scenery, but they don't. It's old indigestion that's the master with them and six days of my Drexco will prove it. They don't get the strength out of their food. It's like running cars through a nail with the roller, too wide apart, the car goes through, but the nail doesn't grind.

DON'T THINK YOU MUST HAVE A PAIN TO HAVE INDIGESTION.

Take my Drexco with your other doctor says he had rheumatism so bad for a week and find out how bad he had to get a name to get your digestive organs are working around at all. On his fourth bottle

Well, he had been disturbed by his habit of remaining silent when she disagreed with him, and now, as she did not reply, he started more explicitly what was in his mind, saying: "I think you'd better tell each other what we're going to wear."

"Well, find out when we unpack,"

she said.

"But I think the idea of secrecy is all nonsense," he insisted with a little show of heat.

"Mrs. Welkins the matinée,"

he wistfully said.

"I think it's all nonsense!"

But she did not answer. He had never known a woman with Bloemond empty for silences. It gave her a mysterious power.

"The steward of the club told me

they'd had over five hundred people

last night," he went on. "That means a mixed crowd, and I'd like to know what your costume is going to be so I can look after you."

"That's sweet of you," she answered,

but I'm sure I shan't need looking after."

"You might," he declared.

"Oh, I don't think so—not at our own country club."

"But I tell you it's going to be a mixed crowd. You're a darn pretty woman—and a blonde." And as again

she was silent, he added in a tone that held a hint of accusation: "Blondes always attract more attention."

"Take some hot tonsil," she said to him as the maid appeared. He took some, and waited till she left the room.

Then he said:

"I wonder why men always think good-looking blondes are—But he did not finish the sentence.

"Are what?" she asked.

She was silent again.

"About this fancy-dress ball at the country club tonight," said Archibald Welkins as his wife, looking very lovely in a French-blue dress, poured the morning coffee. "I don't quite like the idea, do you, Eleanor?"

Her large blue eyes turned up to him

inquiringly.

"What don't you like about it, dear?" she asked.

"Oh, this fool notion of husbands and wives dressing separately—not knowing about each other's costumes."
